Whirlwind tour

Reading the beginning of the Gospel of Mark, one can easily get the feeling that Peter was living in a whirlwind. Mark uses the word “immediately” quite often to describe Peter’s “adventures” with Jesus. It reads as though time is going way too fast. It is easy to imagine. Peter has a front row seat to one miracle after another. Then before Peter can comprehend what just happened, they are headed to a different location, meeting new people, getting harassed by the church leadership, and a whole new wave of miracles commences. No wonder Mark uses “immediately.”

The window of time students are in high school is often described as a whirlwind. Things move so fast that kids seem to graduate in the blink of an eye. Parents are watching their kids grow up at an incredible pace, and the next thing they know, they are empty nesters (unless an “Ivy” comes along). The four years of high school are generally a blur. We hope to pack those years with good/great memories.

Peter’s whirlwind tour with Jesus was clearly packed with memories. It led him into a global crusade. MLHS hopes to send kids out into the next steps of what we hope is a “global” crusade for Jesus. We want to continue to help them develop a foundation on Jesus that makes the next vocational steps easier. We are acutely aware that our time is limited and that the distractions are many. From the teenagers’ perspective, the distractions can seem overwhelming and over-powering. We stand ready to meet these students where they are.

Like Peter’s story, high school has some ups and downs. We hope in our brief window of time, we can set things into motion that will change the world in both small and large ways. Like Peter, we want to share the Truth of Jesus, because Jesus showed us such great love, compassion, mercy, and grace. It is The Story! We need to share it in the whirlwind of ordinary life. Ready, set, GO! – Mark 16:15!

Come Lord Jesus, Amen!
